

Border County Notes.

CARROLL.

Sheriff Stanley is having a fence built around the jail 20 feet high.

Fred White, of Carrollton, sold a team of horses last week to a St. Louis man for $300.

The marshal of Carrollton is enforcing the law in that city against stock running at large.

The Watkins farm of 440 acres, three miles northwest of Carrollton, has been sold to an Illinoisan, at $30 per acre.

The difference between Sheriff Stanley and his deputy, Cummings, have been adjusted and Cummings will remain at the jail.

Mrs. Tyson Dines, of Denver, Colo., and Mr. Lon Tooley and wife, of Keytesville, are visiting H. E. Carson, and wife, of Carrollton Democrat.

In a shooting affray that occurred near Wakenda, Will Lawson shot Washington Perry, the shot taking effect in Perry's arm, breast and leg, producing a bad wound.

A tramp called at a farm near Bosworth for dinner last Sunday, and on Monday morning a coat, a pair of shoes and a pair of gloves that were hanging on the back porch were missing.

The Braymer Bee estimates the number of cattle on full feed in Fairfield township to be 1,400; 525 of which will be shipped the middle of May, while the remainder will be kept till the 1st of August.

Boys jumping on and off the trains at Carrollton depots has become so annoying to train men that Marshal Scholl has taken the matter in hand, and is suppressing the nuisance by arresting the boys and putting them in the cooler.

The supreme court sustained the finding in the lower court in the Taylor brothers case and issued its mandate to have them hung the 30th inst., yesterday. Lawyer Conkling hurried to Washington to secure interference by federal authority.

The execution of Bill Taylor was the first legal hanging that ever occurred in Carroll county. Two men were condemned to be hanged but he governor commuted their sentences to imprisonment for life. One of them is dead, while the other, Baugh, still holds his place in the pen.

A man calling himself C. A. Stewart, who had been putting up at the Florence hotel, in Carrollton, for the past two months, left suddenly one day last week, leaving unpaid a $70 board bill and other accounts against him in the way of clothing, jewelry, doctor bills and reading matter, aggregating over $100.

Mort Jourdan, of Norborne, is a candidate for attorney-general; Alfred Lozier, of Carrollton, is a Democratic candidate for congress, and J. L. Minis is stalked off for governor or congress, one or the other, by his Republican friends. All of which goes to show that Carroll county is well supplied with all sorts of official timber.

A foot race, at Hale on Tuesday of last week, between a racer from Hale and another from Sumner, resulted in a victory for the Sumner man, though the stakes have not yet passed into the victor's hands, for the reason that the pistol, which was to tell when to start, was accidentally fired too soon, thereby giving the Sumner man the start.

In playing hangman, some small boys in Carrollton, undertook to execute a condemned murderer, all in fun, of course. They put a rope around one little fellow's neck and one of the hangmen said: "Now jerk, and we will take his head clear off." They did jerk, but did not pull the head quite off. They made a very sore neck, however, and the little fellow is laid up for repairs.

Carroll county has two candidates for governor, composed of the old law firm of Hale & Eads, Democrat and Republican, respectively. Who knows but these old bosom friends will be nominated by their respective parties, and if so, what a lively tussle they will have. Eads is the better speaker of the two, growing in part of the better cause he advocates.

MARRIAGES.

Wm. Lynch and Miss Mary Crank.

I. N. Calvert and Miss Nannie Finley.

S. A. Pitts and Miss Ella C. Traugher.

James Sullivan and Miss Lena Akerman.

Selar R. Profit and Miss Martha E. Herrin.

MACON.

Mrs. Elizabeth Hamilton, of Macon, aged 78 years, died last week.

The barn of Wm. Howell, of near New Cambria, containing 400 bushels of corn and 70 bushels of wheat was destroyed by fire last week. No insurance.

Among the grand jurors drawn from Macon for the U. S. court, at Hannibal, are the names of G. W. Draper and F. Larabee. Draper has been dead for a year and Larabee has been a resident of Indiana for about the same time.

Wm. Watson, a farmer of Ten Mile township, tells a good rat story as to the size of the rodents at his place. He says: "I took a bucket of slop to my hogs and left. Presently I heard a noise and went to my hog pen and found an enormous rat had driven the hogs to one end of the trough while he was eating at the other end."

The Macon Republican devoted, last week a column and a half space to a write-up of the Chariton bottom lands, in Macon county, showing their wonderful fertility. These lands when brought into cultivation have removed a bar to progress and civilization, which the most sanguine people of a quarter of century ago thought could never be overcome.

The Hannibal district conference of the M. E. Church, South, was held at La Plata. Bishop Duncan presided, at which there was a large attendance of both clerical and lay members. In one of his talks the bishop referred to the fact that the people looked to the money question, a silver dollar, or sound money saving the country, instead of the Lord saving it, and how the people neglected their religious duties to hear a political speaker.

Arthur Russell was awarded $1,600 damages against the Santa Fe railroad company in the circuit court at Macon last week for injuries received in October, 1894. While crossing a track with a log wagon, a west-bound passenger train came along, caught the rear wheels of the wagon and threw Russell 50 feet in the air and knocked the wagon into kindling wood. Russell claimed that two cars on the track and a cattle pen prevented his seeing the approaching train and that no whistle was sounded nor bell rang to give him warning.

J. A. Hudson, editor of the Macon Times, wisely concludes that the time for the circulation of gold-standard literature in Missouri, through Democratic newspapers, have ceased, at least until the Chicago convention is heard from, and for that reason refuses to accept the offer of the St. Louis commercial club to supply the Times with supplements containing Mr. Carlisle's recent speech before the workingmen of Chicago. "Hud's" only hope now is that the Chicago convention will undo the action of the Sedalia convention, so far as the financial policy is concerned in a declaration for a gold-standard, but is too good a Democrat to promise a bolt in case his hopes are not realized.

MARRIAGES.

R. B. Neagle and Mrs. Harvena Peyton, both of Independence township.

RANDOLPH.

The people of Randolph county will vote on the local option question May 2nd.

The state meeting of the American wheelmen is to be held at Moberly July 3rd and 4th.

O. M. Harrison, a native of Randolph county, born in 1842, died last week, near Moberly.

Prof. J. A. Whiteford was unanimously re-elected superintendent of the Moberly schools last week.

"Uncle Billy" Rutherford, of Huntsville, who has been at home on account of sickness, drove down town for the first time last week in a somewhat improved state of health.

At the city election in Huntsville this spring one of the clerks was under age, and for this reason there is a contested election in one of the wards of that city. Another election set for May 5th has been ordered.

The Moberly Monitor is for Lon V. Stevens and Senator Vest for re-election to the U. S. senate. "Buck" Kelly, the editor, used to be a gold-bug, but suppose he has quit that sort of foolishness. Glad of it.

John C. Settles, a groceryman of Moberly, was adjudged insane by the probate court, of Randolph county, last week, and was sent to the asylum at Fulton. Miss Mary E. Settles, his sister, was appointed his guardian.

G. B. Kelly, proprietor of the Moberly Monitor, had a distinguished visitor last week in the person of Tom Brockman, a colored man connected with Uncle Tom's cabin show. He was seven feet and seven inches tall. His visit was heralded one day in advance and "Buck" wanted everybody to come and see him.

The Democrats, of Randolph county, will hold a grand ratification meeting at Moberly to-morrow to endorse the action of the Sedalia convention in its grand work and the endorsement of Richard P. Bland for president. This is pretty good for Randolph county, which some of our "sound-money" friends claimed was for a gold-standard.

While Hiram Jennings and family were absent from their home, in Moberly, last week, burglars entered their dwelling and stole a lot of silverware and some clothing. The silverware was found at a certain place in the city. A close watch was kept upon the thieves, knowing they would be caught when they came for their stolen goods. It seems they smelt a rat, and came not.

MARRIAGES.

George Buchanan and Miss Minnie Bell Burnham, both of Moberly.

John Edwards and Miss Kate O'Malley, both of Moberly.

HOWARD.

Judge Henry L. Brown, an old and highly respected citizen of Fayette, died last week in his 73rd year.

Editor Walton, of the Herald and postmaster at Armstrong, has twice been the victim of thieves lately. Bob has certainly more attractions than most editors or he would not draw thieves thusly.

John M. Kivett, of Boonstick township, was born in Howard county March 20th, 1821. He has been justice of the peace continuously since 1844, and has in that time married 285 couples, an average of nearly six for each year.

James Parker lost his life in a sand bank near New Franklin. He was loading sand in his wagon when a slide in the sand covered him up and buried him alive. His perilous situation was discovered too late to rescue him. The coroner's jury rendered a verdict in accordance with the foregoing facts.

The Fayette people and friends of Central college generally, are mourning over the fact of J. D. Hammond, D. D., having been elected president of the Wesleyan female college, of Atlanta, Georgia. The doctor has given good satisfaction as president of Central college, and his resignation would be much deplored.

Charles McClintick, a laborer on the bridge force of the M. K. & T. railway, was fined $10 and costs in the police court of Fayette for indecent and lewd conduct, and was arrested while arming Stacia Hughes, a colored woman. She was fined a like sum and was sent to jail. McClintick paid his fine and was released.

A burglar entered the residence of W. D. Ainsworth, in Fayette, in the broad light of day on Wednesday of last week, while the family were away from home. The burglar made a search through the entire house for such articles of value as suited his taste, but took nothing except a lunch that had been prepared for Mr. Ainsworth's daughter, who was at school.

MARRIAGES.

A. L. Mudd, of New Franklin, and Miss Elizabeth Gay, of Fayette.

LINN.

Miss Lora Ray, of Westville neighborhood, was elected by the school board, of Marceline, last week, to teach in room No. 3 of the Marceline public schools.

Gus Ellis, of Marceline, pleaded guilty to helping himself to meat found in Lige Wilhoits stock of provisions, for which he was sent by Justice Laird to the county jail for 30 days.

Isaac Huddle, of Westville, renewed his faith in the Mirror yesterday, and informed us that he is through planting corn. Mr. Huddle is a thorough going farmer and may be always found in the lead.—Marceline Mirror.

Mathew Brown was badly hurt at G. W. Baswell's, near Marceline, by an infuriated hog. The animal rushed upon him and sunk his tusks deep into his thigh lacerating the muscles terribly. His leg and arm also were injured.

The Brookfield Budget gives a doleful account of the gambling devices, that run in that town, without let or hindrance, to the detriment of the city and the degradation of its young men. Where are your grand-juries and your good citizens to allow such a state of affairs as you describe?

MARRIAGES.

Charles S. Phillips, of Marceline, and Mrs. Lizzie Maupin, of Kansas City.

Oliver G. Cady and Miss Evelyn Morris, both of Linneus.

Milton S. Jones and Miss Viola Henning, both of Bucklin.

LIVINGSTON.

J. V. Blaney, aged 60 years, of Grand River township, died last week.

The Baptist Sunday-school convention for Northwest Missouri held a two days' session in Chillicothe last week. Thirty ministers and a large number of lay delegates were in attendance.

Charles Stewart, aged 20 years, a student in the Chillicothe Normal school from Audrain county, died of pneumonia, in Chillicothe, last week. His remains were taken home for interment.

The silver men, of Chillicothe, have issued a challenge to the gold men. They propose to furnish the hall rent, light it and furnish a debater if the gold men will put up a man who will explain their side of the question.

MARRIAGES.

Thomas J. Boyd and Miss Loretta B. Johnson, both of Chillicothe.

Lewis Pfaff and Miss Annie Kappers, both of Sturgis.

Anberry Rallo and Miss Martha A. Wilhite, both of Rich Hill township.

John O. Bent and Miss May Belle Williams, both of Grand River township.

SALINE.

The Democrat-News, of Marshall, hoists the name of Lon V. Stephens at its mast head for governor.

Saline county has seven Democrats who are seeking the nomination for sheriff, five for treasurer and assessor, respectively.

J. E. Wood, book-keeper of Baggett & Fowler, proprietors of the Slater roller mills, is short in his accounts to the amount of $58, and has skipped the country.

Luther, aged 15 years, son of John K. Lewis, near Marshall, met death on Wednesday of last week. He was riding one of a team of horses and fell between them, causing them to run, dragging him, inflicting injuries from the effects of which he died in a short time.

MARRIAGES.

Edward S. Rea and Miss Magarite Owens, both of Marshall.
